

TANKS OF FACTS.

There is a difference between information and knowledge. Information is knowledge that is not yet organized. Knowledge is information that has been organized. A great many people make the mistake of thinking that they have knowledge when they have only information. What a man needs is not that he may be possessed of an accumulation of facts, but that he may know where to look for the facts when he wants them. We all know the unpleasant individual who is continually seeking information. You show him about your city and he asks: "How many miles of street railway have you in your city?" "What is the price of ice here this summer?" "How many churches are there here?" "How long has that building been standing?" etc. and ad nauseam. You don't know where you want to find out, and that is enough for you.

And then there is that equally disagreeable person who actually seems to be a tank of facts. He has more information than anything else and delights in asking you most extraordinary questions. You answer him and he says: "How many miles of street railway have you in your city?" "What do you know?" and then tell you when you don't want to know at all. For example, he is much surprised because you don't know how long the Amazon river is. He permits you to say, he is surprised that you should know only that the Amazon is the longest river in the world. He is so incensed with facts that it is almost useless. Life is too short for a man to try to constitute himself a library of universal knowledge when the reservoir of such knowledge are ready to hand when it is needed.—Manchester Union.

CAPITOL RED TAPE.

The Building of a Stone Wall and the Stopping Thereof.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—"The work of preparing all measures to be introduced into the House of Representatives is done in secret, and no one person or leader or no party is responsible for what is done or left undone. The committee does not know why this item is introduced in an appropriation bill, why that economy has been practiced or what is the reason for some bit of extravagance. Sometimes the committee demonstrates that even it might be enlightened by discussion and criticism, and perhaps the committee is so enlightened that it might be so. It is not until it comes to the floor of the House that the committee is made aware of the details of expenditure. I have been told of a 'breast high stone wall' at West Point, for example. Years ago and was told of a 'breast high stone wall' for the construction of a 'breast high stone wall' to the road leading from the wharf to the plain, the road running along the edge of a precipice. At last Congress moved, and the twenty thousand dollar wall was built. Having been built, it was impossible for it to stop, so it went on year after year appropriating $20,000 each year for a 'breast high stone wall' until 'breast high stone walls' became a drug at the Military Academy. They ran around the post and threatened to choke it off. Superintendents begged Congress to let them off and finally succeeded.

Queer Icelandic Beliefs.

The orthodox Icelandic believes that the earth has an opening through it from pole to pole—in other words, that it is the exact counterpart of a giant's head. According to their idea all waters which flow to the north are drawn thitherward by a suction created by the ocean's tumbling downward through the hollow, which they firmly believe exists. Their authority for the curious belief is the "Utama Saga," a misnamed work written in the fourteenth century.

If the ancient volume is to be relied upon, one Bjorn Lifsson, a fisherman who was driven northward by a fierce gale about the year 1201, is the only human being who has ever seen the hole where the waters go down. He is said to have seen it in the shape of a giant's head and is not seen again until they have passed entirely through the earth and again appear bubbling and frothing like a mammoth spring at the south pole.

A Valuable Secret.

There is only one genuine brand of can de Cologne in the whole wide world, and its composition is a family secret and has been so for nearly 200 years past.

It was in 1700 or thereabouts that the manufacture of the famous perfume was first established by one Giovanni Maria Farina in the city whence it takes its name. There are now in Cologne and its immediate neighborhood some fifty factories for its preparation, over forty of them being in the hands of persons bearing the name of Farina. The others are conducted by kinsmen and kinswomen, mostly relations by marriage. It has been estimated that from first to last the monopoly has brought into the coffers of the clan the enormous sum of $750,000,000, and probably this estimate is under rather than over the mark.

Privileges of a Peer.

An English peer can demand a private audience with the sovereign to represent his views on matters of public welfare. For treason or felony he has the right to be tried by his peers. He cannot be outlawed in any civil action, nor can he be arrested without an indictable offense, and he is exempt from serving on juries. He may sit with his hat on in courts of justice, and should be able to the last penny of the law he can demand a squire instead of a henchman.

Berry He Spoke.

When some ladies in Charleston were eulogizing Colonel Washington, it is said that Tarleton replied, with a scornful air: "I would be very glad to get a sight of Colonel Washington. I have heard much talk of him, but have never yet seen him."

"Had you looked behind you at the battle of Cowpens," rejoined one of the ladies, "you might easily have enjoyed that pleasure."

What Is It?

Recently a neighboring pastor was preaching to the children in his church. After asking many questions and impressing on the minds of the children that they must be saved from sin he asked the question, "What is it?"

A bright little boy, six years old, quick as thought replied, "Crying, smoking, cursing and tearing your pants."—Homestead Review.

GAVE HIM HIS OWN WAY.

And Then the Customer Brought the Shoe Clerk to Time.

"Now, then," said the shoe sales man, "the judge says that a man needs is not that he may be possessed of an accumulation of facts, but that he may know where to look for the facts when he wants them. We all know the unpleasant individual who is continually seeking information. You show him about your city and he asks: 'How many miles of street railway have you in your city?' 'What is the price of ice here this summer?' 'How many churches are there here?' 'How long has that building been standing?' etc. and ad nauseam. You don't know where you want to find out, and that is enough for you."

"Let me put on the other." Then, after a moment: "There you are, sir. Couldn't be better. Three-fifty, please." "For what?"

"For the shoes."

"But I don't want the shoes. You asked me to let you put them on, and I was curious enough to let you do it. I always try to be obliging. You said they were just what I wanted, but that was your judgment, and I'm accustomed to back my own. Now, if you've had all the diversion in this matter that you desire, will you please trot me out a pair of shoes according to the plans and specifications I gave you when I came in, and perhaps we can do business? I have found by experience that the only way to get what one wants from a shoe clerk is to let him have his own way for the first fifteen or twenty minutes, and then he may become tractable."—Chicago Post.

The Real Drummer.

"The term 'drummer' is said a traveling salesman for a Market street wholesale house, who came to be regarded as synonymous with cheer, business and dissipation. Just why this should be I don't know, unless people get the idea from stage jokes and comic papers. Perhaps years ago there was some justification for it, but there is no room for that sort of man today. Competition is too keen. The traveling salesman who stands well with his trade and with his own firm must attend strictly to business. I may sound strange and contrary to general belief, but most men in my line of work are of a religious turn. Some get into the church-going habit, while others, over Sunday in small towns, where there is nothing else to do. They get interested in religion and wind up by joining the church. Then, too, the country merchant is usually a man of affairs in the town and is generally a pillar of the church and the church-going habit is apt to make a great impression on him than does one who is more worldly."—Philadelphia Record.

The Java Mangosteen.

"The most delicious of all the fruits of Java," writes the correspondent of the "Punching Magazine," "is the mangosteen. For years an enormous reward awaited the man who would bring a basket to the court of Holland, but unfortunately the fruit is too perishable, and to taste it you must go to the country where it grows."

Two boys in a rural Scotch district were one day discussing what sign it was when the cuckoo is heard for the first time in the year. One of them said it was a sign of getting married, while the other said it was a sign that you were going to be rich. A farmer, overhearing them, said: "The cuckoo is true, because I have heard it many times, and I am not married yet, and I am certainly not rich."

Just then a local worthy, known as "Daft Jamie," was passing by, and the farmer said, "Jamie, can you tell us what sign it is to see the cuckoo for the first time?" "Yes," said Jamie as he took his pipe from his mouth, "it's a sign you're not deaf."

Scotch Thrift.

The ferryboat was full on her way when a violent storm arose and she was overturned for her safety.

The ferryman and his mate, both Scotchmen, held a consultation, and after a short debate the ferryman turned to his passengers and remarked anxiously:

"We'll just tak' yer tuppence now, for we no ken what might come over us."—London Answers.

A Church in Difficulties.

It was a New England person who announced to his congregation on a recent Sunday, "You will be sorry to hear that the church at Jonesville is once more tossed upon the waves, a sheep without a shepherd."—Christian Register.

Fisherman's Luck.

"I understand that Miss Specie caught a duke while fishing in Europe."

"Yes, but she declares that she hooked two princes, and they got away just as she was about to land them."—Town and Country.

Cautious Patient.

"I see you pay your doctor's bills by check and send it by mail."

"Sure, if I took him the money, he might charge me for another visit."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Gentle Blow.

"Remember, my dear brethren," said the minister, "that charity covereth a multitude of sins. I hope you'll be unusually generous in your offering this morning."—Detroit Free Press.

His Greatest Objection.

"You object to Mormonism and other forms of polygamy on moral grounds, I suppose?"

"Well, partly, partly, but not entirely."

"What else should make it offensive to you?"

"What else? Why, great mackerel, think of coming here to see me from the club and having to make explanations to ten or fifteen wives!"—Chicago Post.

Condemnation.

"How did you happen to be so small?" asked the angular female who had accompanied her curiosity to the fine museum.

"My nurse stuffed me with condensed milk when I was a kid," replied the widge.—Chicago News.

Fitted Him.

"Young Brown is asking everybody what he shall call his new baby."

"Better call it 'Ginnet'."

"Ginnet? Why, who ever heard of such a name?"

"Well, he's an awful little bore."

Health is a magnet which irresistibly draws the man to the woman in life's mating tude. Health does more than that the man with beauty; it puts music into the voice and buoyancy into the step, as well as happiness into the heart. A great many women covet beauty and are constantly seeking aids to beauty. Let a woman first seek perfect health and all other charms shall be added to her.

There can be no general health for women while there is disease of the delicate womanly organism. The first step to perfect health is to cure womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Female Prescriptions. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I used four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' writes Mrs. Elmer D. Shearer, of Mount Pleasant, Mo. 'I can say that I am cured of that dreaded disease, white trouble, and in better health than ever before. Every one who knows me is surprised to see me look so well, after the time I was so ill. Health at times I could not walk. To-day I am cured. I tell everybody that Dr. Pierce's medicines are the best.'"

Dr. Pierce's Medical Advertiser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. The traveling salesman for the book in paper covers, or 10 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Charles H. Uter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had a patient, a young lady, fifteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing weaker every hour. Her parents were at a loss to know what to do. She became so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and as a last resort prescribed it. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Emlen Martin.

Cautions!

This is not a gentle word but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for 75c the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has saved thousands of lives, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boecher's German Syrup. There are many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the night and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. Sold by all druggists in the civilized world.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Carrie Baker, of Bowler, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy child. I have recommended the Remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by Emlen Martin.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picking up last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dobbs, of Sioux City, Mo. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, sores, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Believes pills at once. Beware of counterfeits. J. Edward Wright, Central Pharmacy, 303 Mill Street.

Want to Visit His Sister.

A. J. Cottingham went to Washington County, Ark., to see his sister and while there was taken with dysentery and died very bad. He decided to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and was so much pleased with the prompt cure which it effected, that he wrote the manufacturer a letter in praise of their medicine. Mr. Cottingham resides at Lockland, Ark. This remedy is for sale by Emlen Martin.
